New AMC commander holds first conference here

Commanders from throughout the Army Materiel Command met at Redstone Arsenal last week for their quarterly conference.

It was the first command team conference for Gen. William G.T. Tuttle as the new commander of AMC, and the first here since 1985. The Officers Club was closed to non-participants for the conference held Nov. 6-8.

"AMC commanders' conferences are conducted periodically throughout the year to ensure the following: that they are pursuing common goals and objectives; that they re-look their individual missions, roles and functions in light of the priorities set by government; and finally, to share common experiences so they may benefit from each other's knowledge based on each of their individual missions," said Col. John Burlingame, chief of staff for the Missile Command.

"This conference is unique in that it is the first held by the newly assigned commanding general of AMC, Gen. William G.T. Tuttle, and a great deal of time was spent defining and clarifying his guidance for the command," Burlingame added.

Commanders in attendance represented 11 major subordinate commands in the continental U.S., and two overseas commands in the Far East and Europe. Also attending were some of the wives of AMC commanders.

"The conference is conducted at a different AMC command location within the continental U.S.; we at Redstone are honored to have this group here and hope they will have a positive impression of both the arsenal and the community in which it resides," Burlingame said.

Highlights of their visit here included a dinner with community leaders at the Space and Rocket Center, and a tour of the historic portion of Huntsville.

Asked if budget cuts were among the issues addressed, Burlingame said: "Of course the financial situation facing the Army, to include AMC, is constantly addressed to ensure resources allocated are expended to optimize the value added to the force structure as a whole."

The conference attendees were welcomed by Maj. Gen. William Chen, commander of the Missile Command and Redstone Arsenal.

Display shows where and when deer strikes happen

BY SKIP VAUGHN

Vehicles are more likely to strike deer on Redstone's main thoroughfares in the early morning or early evening, according to a display provided by the Missile Command Safety Office.

The display is moving from main building to building in an effort to inform workers about where and when deer strikes occur on post.

"It's because there's so many deer-vehicle accidents on post, and it's an effort to create a public awareness of the problem," said Dian Avery of the Safety Office. She put up the display using information from the Military Police.

Deer strikes during 1988 and through Oct. 17, 1989 are pinpointed on an area map. "It's very evident at a glance where the greatest number of strikes occur," Avery said. High strike areas include Martin Road, Rideout Road, Patton Road, Goss Road, and "then surprisingly enough Fowler Road and Mills Road behind (building) 5400," she said. "Just in the last few weeks, several strikes have occurred on a very short stretch of Vincent Road close to the housing area."

Facts indicated on the display include the correlation between time of day and when deer actually move: they are likely to be on the move from 5:30 to 8 in the morning, and from about sunset to early night. These also happen to be the times cars are either entering or leaving Redstone.

"We've pinpointed the areas where there are reflectors," Avery said, referring to roadside devices which

Army learning centers open doors for Education Week

The Army Learning Centers here are having an open house from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. through Nov. 17 for American Education Week.

ALC locations include South, building 7446; North, building 3349; Research Park, the Strategic Defense Command annex on Wynn Drive; and Fox, the Fox Army Community Hospital's second floor, north wing.

The Army Learning Center system includes Interactive Video Instruction (IVI). This computerized mode of instruction uses a "touch screen" which integrates seeing, hearing, and touching of both the keyboard and screen, according to Joan McWilliams, the Army Learning Center manager.

"We're using technology to teach technology, and there is a minimum requirement for keyboarding skills," she said. The IVI system consists of a personal computer which has a laser disc attached to it; the student puts in the disc and closes the door.

"This technology, IVI, cuts training time in half," McWilliams said. "And studies have shown that 75 percent of the people who use it prefer it over an instructor. That's unusual for a self-paced course. And then 95 percent say they learn as much or more using IVI as they would with an instructor."

IVI courses available include introduction to personal computing, Lotus 1-2-3, dBase III Plus, and WordPerfect 5.0. There are also management courses which "teach you to manage in the new TQM (Total Quality Management) environment," McWilliams said. Management skills instructed include team building, problem solving, flexibility, adapting to change, interacting with others, identifying sources of information, written communications, key points of presentations, and using visual aids effectively.

The South learning center has a variety of Total Quality Management courses. And the learning centers have available more than 1,500 self-paced courses on subjects ranging from clerical/typist/secretary to financial management. The centers also have personal development cassettes which can be checked out and listened to at home or while driving.

A DD Form 1556, Request for Training, is no longer required in order to take learning center courses. For courses less than eight hours, the supervisor should call one of the centers to schedule a time of training or send the employee's name, phone number, office symbol, and desired training time by electronic mail to the center most convenient. For courses eight hours or more in length, the supervisor must enter the course on the employee's Individual Development Plan. This may be done through the "Desktop IDP" interactive automated training system or by completing an SM Form 1278, IDP Projection.

Army Learning Center phone numbers include South, 876-1061/1416; North, 876-9247/9416; Research Park, 895-3480; and Fox, 876-9536.

Irving Kellogg dies

Irving R. Kellogg, a retired Redstone worker, died Nov. 7 at Crestwood Hospital. He was 77.

Kellogg had lived in Huntsville for the past 34 years, and was retired from civil service with 35 years service. He was an artist at Redstone. A veteran of World War II, Kellogg was a member of Latham United Methodist Church.

Survivors include his wife, Helen Kellogg of Huntsville; two sons, George Kellogg of Huntsville and Rod Kellogg of Guntersville; a sister, Virginia Libere of New Jersey; a brother, George Kellogg of Florida; and a grandchild. Funeral was held Nov. 9 at Valhalla Funeral Home, and burial was in Valhalla Memory Gardens.

reflect headlights to scare deer away. In the works for high-strike areas are new caution signs, and strobe lights triggered by low-light conditions, she said.

Military police provided to the Safety Office statistics on number of strikes, where the reflectors are located, and where the new signs are to be located. The Safety Office is putting up posters in all the buildings to alert drivers to be on the lookout for deer and reduce speed on roadways near wooded areas, open field and range areas.

The display was in building 5250 from Oct. 30 to Nov. 3, and in building 5400 from Nov. 3-9. It will be in building 4488 until Nov. 17, in buildings 5681/4505 Nov. 17-24, building 112 Nov. 24 to Dec. 1, building 8027 Dec. 4-8, building 5435 Dec. 8-15, building 5201 Dec. 15-22, Post Exchange/Commissary Dec. 22-29, and Marshall Space Flight Center headquarters Dec. 29 to Jan. 5.

Redstone workers volunteer for Education Week briefings

BY PAM ROGERS

Representatives of the Redstone community are at area high schools this week to help students get a better understanding of their educational and career options.

In recognition of National Education Week, Redstone's Adopt-a-School Committee, in cooperation with the Installation Education Center, has arranged for subject matter experts in fields chosen by several local schools to visit and talk to students.

Redstone representatives are visiting Grissom, Butler, and Huntsville high schools, as well as the Huntsville Center for Technology, according to Mary McGough, director of the Education Center.

"As young people face the challenge of making decisions about their future educational and career goals, the advice of working professionals is of critical importance," she said.

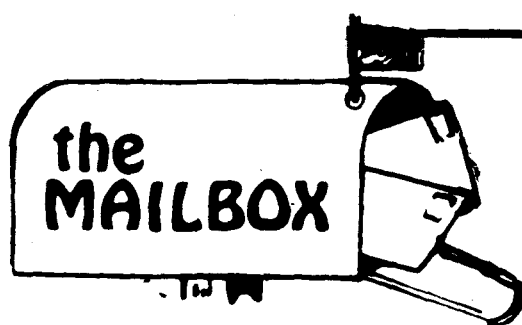

"We thought it would be of help to students who are trying to make the decisions about what to major in and what career to go into to have somebody in that field come and talk," she said.

Each school asked for professionals in several career fields, including law, engineering, accounting and administrative management. More technical areas requested were demonstrations of kinetic/potential energy, electrical energy, and lasers.

Huntsville High plans to have its eighth and ninth graders listen to three speakers: a successful black role model, an expert on alcohol and drug abuse prevention, and someone who can tell students what kind of people the Army is looking for.

Students will also hear about the advantages of the Army as a career or as the stepping stone to higher education, according to McGough.

"The Army is not just another employer. Doctrine places a high premium on the well-being of soldiers and also recognizes an obligation to return them to civilian society better-equipped to be productive citizens," she said.

Add those hours

Editor:

In response to "Party Pooper" (Mailbox, Nov. 8)... Sugar, you definitely ain't lookin' at the "Big Picture." It's obvious you're near-sighted. Have you ever asked those people who "abuse" the 30-minute lunch policy how they were reimbursed when they spent 12 hours on an airplane traveling overseas for the government? Or when traveling to D.C., and don't get checked into a hotel until after midnight, and then on their return home, don't get home until after midnight again? Well, total it up. Just those instances there add up to 56 1/2 hour increments; when added to the "policy" of 30 minute lunches, gives them 56 one hour lunches.

How many times have I answered the phone at least 15 times when I was "at lunch." How many times have I spent my lunch break catering coffee and doughnuts for official conferences. Stayed 15, 20, and 30 minutes late to finish a report and received no overtime. Hey, it all works out fair.

You go right ahead and take all the guilt you can handle for participating in social functions during working hours, you won't get any guilt from me. You can ask any commander, any CEO, and they will all tell you that high morale will give you more productive workers, more work for your dollar than anything else.

And that one employee out of a hundred that you say does not exceed the 30 minute policy, well, he probably does only what he absolutely has to do toward his job, nothing more. I know him, we all do; he comes in at 8 a.m., takes his 30-minute lunch, his two 15-minute breaks, and times it to walk through the door precisely at 4:30 p.m. And don't ever ask him to work during lunch, or stay five minutes late; he won't. It's the other ones that give more work, time, and heart to their job, more than is ever expected of them who justly take more time occasionally at lunch.

By the way, I certainly hope you aren't reading this on the job! Eat your words for your lunch today, party pooper, or better yet, eat my words, they're more real.

New education savings bond program starts next year

An education savings bond program, in which parents can use tax-free interest to pay their child's college expenses, will take effect in January.

The new program is authorized by the Technical and Miscellaneous Revenue Act of 1988. The program permits qualified taxpayers to exclude from their gross income all or a portion of the interest earned on eligible series EE savings bonds issued after Dec. 31, 1989. To qualify for this exclusion, the bond proceeds (principal and interest) must be used to pay tuition and expenses of the taxpayer, the taxpayer's spouse, or the taxpayer's dependent at certain educational institutions.

The program will take effect on Jan. 1 and will apply only with respect to series EE bonds issued after Dec. 31, 1989. No bonds issued before that date will generate excludable interest nor will any other series of bonds (e.g., series HH) be eligible for the program. Only bonds issued to a person who is at least 24 years old before the bonds are issued will generate excludable interest. In most cases, a taxpayer will have to be 24 years old before the first day of the month in which purchased. Furthermore, if the taxpayer is married, the taxpayer must file a joint return in order to exclude the bond interest from income.

Eligible educational expenses include tuition and fees (such as lab fees and other required course expenses) required for the enrollment of or attendance by the taxpayer, or the taxpayer's spouse or dependent at an eligible educational institution. However, expenses relating to any course or other education involving sports, games, or hobbies are eligible only if required as part of a degree or certificate granting program. Room and board are not included as eligible expenses. Eligible expenses are calculated net of scholarships, fellowships, employer-provided educational assistance, and other tuition reduction amounts and must be incurred during the same tax year in which the bonds whose interest is being excluded are redeemed. Post-secondary institutions, including vocational schools, that meet the standards for participation in federal financial aid programs (such as guaranteed student loan programs) qualify for the program. Proprietary institutions, such as beautician or secretarial schools, generally do not qualify.

"If I buy a bond dated Jan. 1, 1990 or later, I can use the bond and interest on it for my child's education at an educational institution and not pay taxes on it."

— John Wright

There are some income limitations on those eligible to participate in the program. The full interest exclusion is only available for married couples filing joint returns with incomes of up to and including $60,000 (modified adjusted gross income) and for single filers with income of up to and including $40,000 (modified adjusted gross income).

For purposes of this program, modified adjusted gross income means the sum of the taxpayer's adjusted gross income for the taxable year; the partial inclusion of Social Security and tier 1 railroad retirement benefits; the adjustments for contributions of retirement savings; and adjustments with respect to limitations of passive activity losses and credits; and without regard to this program, the gross income earned by citizens or residents of the U.S. living abroad and income from sources within Guam, American Samoa, the Northern Mariana Islands, and Puerto Rico. The interest exclusion benefits will phase out for joint filers with modified adjusted gross incomes of between $60,000 and $90,000 ($40,000 and $55,000 for single filers) by a decreasing percentage above the threshold income level. For example, a taxpayer filing jointly with a modified adjusted gross income (AGI) of $75,000 would only be able to take advantage of one half of the exclusion, while a taxpayer filing jointly with a modified AGI of $80,000 would only be allowed an exclusion of one third of the eligible interest income. A similar phase out plan will be employed for the single filer. (Note: Married individuals filing separately will not be able to take advantage of the program regardless of their income.)

Since the program will utilize the series EE bond, there are no differences in purchase procedures except:

- The bond must be purchased after Dec. 31, 1989
- It must be registered in the taxpayer's name alone or in the name of the taxpayer and his spouse and not the dependent child's name; and

- The taxpayer must be at least 24 years old before the issue date of the bond. Otherwise, the bonds can be purchased in the same manner as any other series EE bond. Any series EE bond denomination will be eligible for the education bond program as long as the other criteria for the program are met. The education bond feature does not affect savings bonds that have been or are being purchased by a parent registered in the name of a child alone, or the child's name with the parent as beneficiary.

There is a limitation on the number or amount of bonds one can buy for use in the program. The standard limitation of $30,000 face value or $10,000 purchase price (See Savings, cont'd on page 16)

Total Army Family conference sets priorities

WASHINGTON — Representatives of the total Army family selected their top five issues for the seventh annual Army Family Action Plan, marking the end of a five-day conference in Falls Church, Va., Oct. 27.

Among the more than 200 attendees, representatives from Redstone Arsenal included J.R. Brown, SSgt. Steve Cantrell, Sue Paddock and Mary Moreillon. Brown, representing the Missile Command, and Cantrell, representing the Training and Doctrine Command, attended as delegates. Paddock and Moreillon attended as facilitators from the local area.

Voting by ballots, the delegates chose the Department of Defense Dependent Schools summer session, Variable Housing Allowance recomputations, the Exceptional Family Member program, CHAMPUS deficiencies and relocation financial hardships as this year's priorities.

Split into 10 caucuses, conferees from every major Army command identified and prioritized issues, then recommended courses of action, according to Brig. Gen. Neal Jaco, commander of the U.S. Army Community and Family Support Center.

During the last day of the conference, the groups presented their top five issues to all the conferees, who then voted on five overall priorities and gave the following recommendations:

- Increase the temporary lodging allowance from four to 10 days and reinstate the previous advance pay policy.
- Develop and institute a DoDDS summer session to allow remedial, make-up and supplemental instruction.

- Increase accessibility to CHAMPUS representatives and improve their information and marketing efforts, to help reduce or eliminate CHAMPUS shortfalls.

- Address costly civilian prescriptions, inequitable cost-sharing and a lack of preventive medicine services.

- Recompute VHA to address perceived inequitable distribution among different areas of the United States.

- Improve the monitoring and screening process, establish identification procedures, enforce enrollment in and provide funding for the entire Exceptional Family Member Program.

After being arranged in order of priority, issues are published in the Army Family Action Plan, DA Circular 608-88-2. The issues are then assigned to 24 separate staff members and their field offices, who work to support or lead their agencies to complete the issues.

Charity campaign exceeds its goal

The Huntsville area Combined Federal Campaign has exceeded its $890,000 goal, and contributions are still coming in.

As of noon Monday, the total was $977,808.40. This included $302,241 from Missile Command workers. Nov. 9 was the charity drive's final day for soliciting employees.

"We're still receiving dollars that have already been solicited," said Tommie Lockhart, chairman of the Local Federal Coordinating Committee which is responsible for running the campaign for the commanding general. "The financial chairpersons have not had an opportunity to make those reports and we're still taking those financial chairpersons' reports, but they are not the result of further solicitations. The campaign is officially finished in terms of solicitations."

He hopes to have a final computerized total by Nov. 29. As the largest of the 30 federal agencies in this area, the Missile Command manages the fund-raising campaign each year. About 64.5 percent of MICOM's workers had participated in the drive by Monday. Lockhart expects the command's final participation figure to be around 67 or 68 percent.

The slogan for this year's campaign, which began Oct. 2, is "Huntsville Area CFC — Giving Because We Care."

"I feel as though our federal team has shown that unity causes the achievement of a common purpose," Lockhart said. "The total team made it happen. And the great thing is that that team is still working to close out the campaign."

Figures show more soldiers losing battle of bulge

WASHINGTON — The number of enlisted soldiers fighting the battle of the bulge is climbing, say personnel officials who set the standards for the Army's weight control program regulation.

According to John Slone, the Department of the Army representative for enlisted separation policy in the Office of the Army's Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel at the Pentagon, the number of enlisted soldiers discharged from the Army for failure to meet regulatory requirements rose from 1,165 in fiscal year 1987 to 1,913 in fiscal '88 and 2,084 in fiscal '89. The fiscal '89 figure represents an increase of 78 percent over the three-year period.

For that and other reasons, Lt. Col. Frank Farkas reminds soldiers of the Army's weight control program, as governed by AR 600-9. Farkas, who holds a doctorate in counselling psychology, serves as the chief of the health readiness policy branch, human resources division, directorate of military personnel management in ODCSPER.

"The regulation establishes criteria on body fat content by age and gender," he says.

At minimum, Farkas explains, the regulation calls for soldiers to be weighed when they take the semiannual physical fitness test. Each soldier's weight is compared to a height/weight screening table. Those whose weight exceeds the allowable or whose physical appearance fails visual scrutiny must undergo a tape test to measure body fat content. The results are compared to maximum allowable percent body fat standards.

For example, male soldiers between 17 and 20 years of age may contain no more than 20 percent body fat. Female soldiers in the same age group may contain 28 percent body fat. However, all soldiers are encouraged to achieve the most stringent DOD-wide goal of 20 percent for males and 26 percent for females. The amount of allowable percentage of body fat increases with the soldier's age.

The standard is percent body fat rather than weight. Weight is used as a screening factor to identify those who may exceed the body fat standards. However, it is percent body fat that determines if a soldier is entered or removed from the weight control program.

The process continues for those soldiers who fail to meet body fat content standards. Those considered to have a medical problem are referred for evaluation and treatment. Those without a medical problem enter a weight control program and receive nutrition counselling. As a result, their records are flagged, meaning they cannot receive promotions, awards or decorations or attend professional military or civilian schooling until they meet the body fat content allowed by regulation.

The standard is percent body fat rather than weight. Weight is used as a screening factor to identify those who may exceed the body fat standards. However, it is percent body fat that determines if a soldier is entered or removed from the weight control program. After a given amount of time, soldiers who have not made satisfactory progress in the weight control program and who do not have a medical reason for being overweight are subject to discharge from the Army.

"It's each soldier's responsibility to comply with the regulation," Farkas continues. "It's the Army's responsibility to establish standard policy for a proper weight control program. It's the unit commanders' responsibility to enforce the standards. It's a known fact that the soldiers perform to the standard the commanders set. If the commander checks weight control, you'd better believe the soldiers are going to pay attention to that."

"The standard is there. It's up to soldiers, commanders and supervisors to make it work," Farkas concludes. (Arnews)

Aberdeen gets award for hiring disabled

ABERDEEN PROVING GROUND, Md. — The Maryland Governor's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped recently honored the U.S. Army Ordnance Center and School as the Public Employer of the Year.

The organization was honored for its program of promoting unpaid work experience for people with disabilities. The program, which has enabled individuals with disabilities to show what they can do in a competitive work environment, has led to attitudinal changes in fellow workers and supervisors and has resulted in many hiring actions. Also noted were the efforts by the Center and School to eliminate architectural barriers in its buildings at Aberdeen Proving Ground.

The award was one of seven presented to businesses and individuals in Harford County. James Jeffers, assistant state superintendent for Vocational Rehabilitation, presented the Public Employer award to Russell Childress, technical training director for the Center and School.

This was the fifth annual awards ceremony conducted by the committee.

Former rock band member performs Christian music

BY SKIP VAUGHN

A member of a successful rock 'n' roll group decided in 1983 to set out on his own and perform music with a message.

Today, Rick Cua is one of the top performers of contemporary Christian music. He performed at Redstone Nov. 8 as part of the ongoing Soldiers Chapel Activity Night (SCAN) program.

"It's rock 'n' roll with a message of hope," said Cua, 40, a Nashville resident. He writes songs, sings and plays bass guitar.

"It's basically the message of the gospel," Cua said. "Specifically, we hit on subjects such as teen suicide, drug and alcohol abuse, sexual temptation; we also do songs about needy people."

Cua was a member of the Outlaws, a five-member rock band out of Tampa, Fla., from May 1980 to July '83. The band enjoyed success touring and cutting gold records. Cua recalls, for example, doing an MTV (Music Television) special at the Tower Theater in Philadelphia in 1983.

But he left the group that year to embark on a solo career. "I really enjoyed working with the Outlaws, but I felt if I had 90 minutes a night to give to the audience, I wanted to not only entertain them but I wanted to give a message to the audience," Cua said.

"If I was going to sing about a bad situation, I wanted to give a solution before the song was over," he said.

The type of music he performs is contemporary Christian or Christian rock. "I really feel called to do that. I can honestly say that. I think that's what God wants me to do," he said.

His debut album, "KOO-AH," came out in 1982 while he was still with the Outlaws. The single "You Can Still Rock 'n Roll" became a No. 1 hit. His second solo album, "No Mystery" was released in November 1983. This was followed by "You're My Road" in 1985 which included the song "Don't Say Suicide"; "Wear Your Colors" in 1986, "Can't Stand Too Tall" in 1988, and his sixth and latest album "Midnight Sun" in June 1989. His first single from that album, "I Can I Will," was No. 1 for six weeks on the Contemporary Christian Magazine and Music Line rock charts. "That's to Christian music what Billboard is to music in general," said Cua, who signed an agreement with Reunion Records in the fall of 1987.

The Syracuse, N.Y., native got an early start in music. "My father's a musician — he plays guitar — and it's because I grew up with music in the home I just got interested in it," he said. "I started playing in the local bands and then I got real serious about it and decided I wanted to make records.

"When I was about 18 or 19 years old, I said 'Hey, I've been playing music now since I was a kid, I'm going to make this a career.' And it wasn't until I was 31 years old that I made my first record (in 1980 with the Outlaws)," Cua recalled.

His wife, Diana, tours with him sometimes, but that's not always possible. They have two daughters in (See Music, cont'd on page 15)

Wrecked car gets international point across

BY MARIANNE CLINEDINST

Is the International Student Company becoming a junkyard for wrecked vehicles? Of course not, it's just their display to discourage drinking and driving.

"During their two-week orientation the foreign students view tapes and hear lectures on the seriousness of driving under the influence of alcohol but because of the language barriers, it's sometimes still hard to get the point across," said Capt. David Perreault, ISC company commander. "The students see posters about DUI's and they understand and discuss what they mean; visual aids can make a point without any words, and it usually has a greater impact than what anybody could tell them."

The display was set up in conjunction with the 73rd Ordnance Battalion. The car was positioned so that not only ISC students would benefit, but also the U.S. students and hopefully people who live and work in the area. The display will be up until the end of November.

Some of the international students are from countries where possession or consumption of alcohol is illegal. "Exposing them to alcohol would be like giving a 6-year-old a can of beer and expecting the child to be responsible," Perreault said.

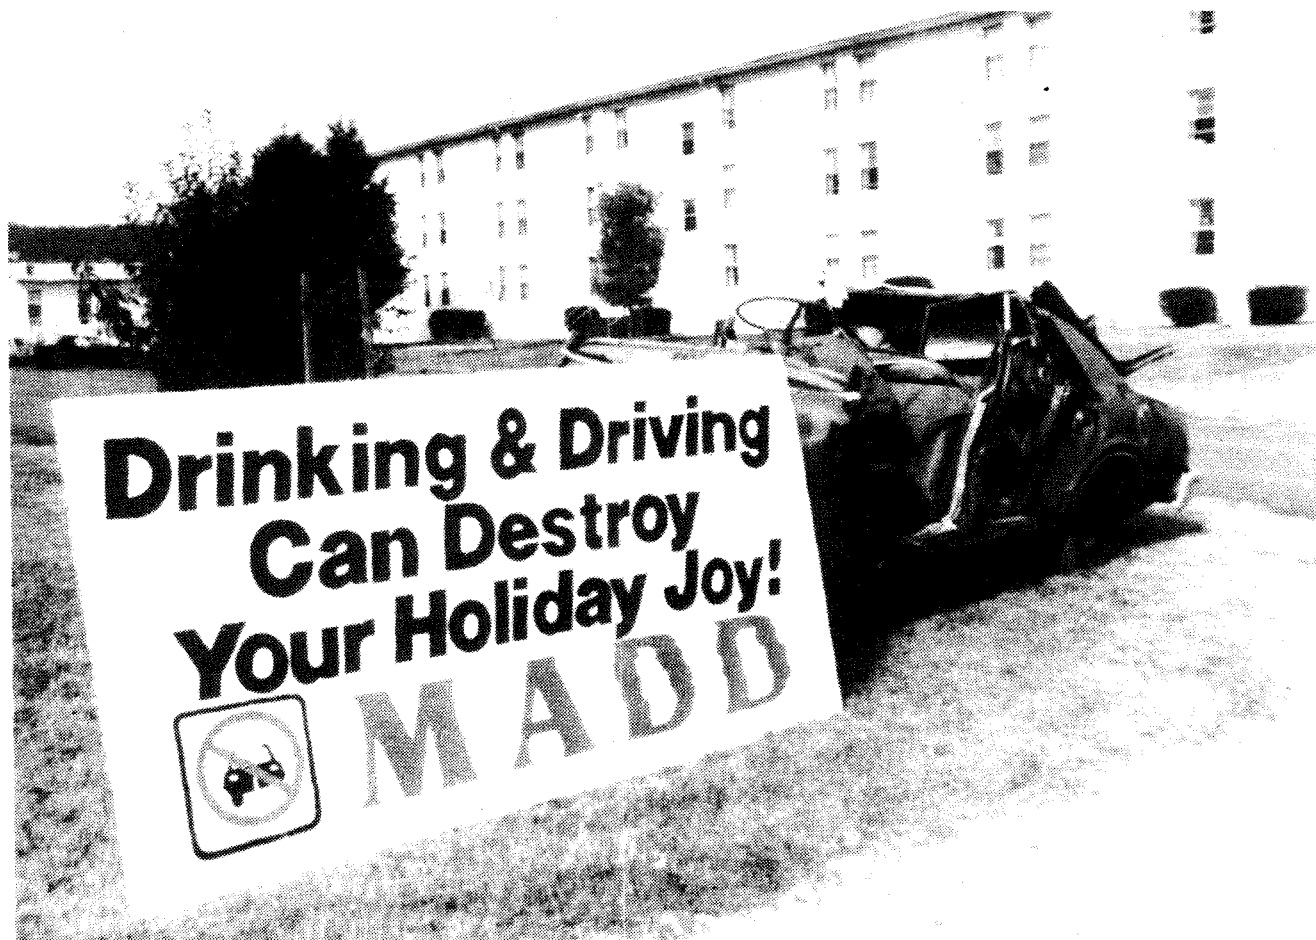

The ISC has problems with DUI's just like any other company, but many people mistakenly believe the students can get by the system because of their foreign status. "While we can't take Uniform Code of Military Justice action against the soldiers and we can't restrict them, if they are caught, they will most likely be kicked out of the school," Perreault said. If international students are caught driving under the influence, their driver's license is taken away for the duration of their courses here. They are put on a 12-month probation period, and if they break the law again within that year they will be put in jail.

Having a foreign student jailed goes from a state-level incident to an international incident in a matter of hours, so the ISC does whatever it can to avoid that situation.

"The students ask questions about drinking because they're curious about the laws. They want to know how much they can drink before they are drunk and about transporting alcohol in their vehicles. Most of the students just don't understand the consequences of drinking and driving," Perreault said.

"We don't have company formations so we have to find other methods of getting a point across so maybe the students will drive through the parking lot and see the wrecked car and it will have an impact on them."

DON'T DRIVE DRUNK — The International Student Company, Ordnance Missile and Munitions Center and School, has a display to discourage drinking and driving.

No. 1 Fighting Irish get nod over Penn State

BY SKIP VAUGHN

It has to be more than the luck of the Irish.

Notre Dame is just plain better than anybody else right now. The Fighting Irish are No. 1 and unbeaten after 10 games with wins over Virginia 36-13, Michigan 24-19, Michigan State 21-13, Purdue 40-7, Stanford 27-17, Air Force 41-27, Southern Cal 28-24, Pittsburgh 45-7, Navy 41-0, and Southern Methodist 59-6.

This week's opponent, Penn State, is 6-2-1. The Nittany Lions have beaten Temple 42-3, Boston College 7-3, Texas 16-12, Rutgers 17-0, Syracuse 34-12, and West Virginia 19-9. They lost to Virginia 14-6 and Alabama 17-16, and tied Maryland last week 13-13.

The Penn State defense will present problems but Notre Dame should find a way to win. The true test for Tony Rice, Raghib "Rocket" Ishmail and company will probably come Nov. 25 at Miami, Fla.

Skip's Picks last week delivered a 32-5-1 record, upping the season marks to 299-83-5 for 78 percent. Here are the predictions for this weekend in college football:

Records fall along with pins in MLC bowling league

BY JUANEZ ALEXANDER

Nov. 8 was a record-setting night for the Missile Logistics Center's Wednesday bowling league.

Jesse Beauford set a new high for male scratch series with a 603. Bill Colgan rolled a 239 to break the single game record for men, and Irene Garoppo had a 216 to set a new women's mark.

Also, for the first time since the league started, each team either won or lost three out of four games.

Beauford shot a 218 game with his 603 series to lead Comic Relief II to their three wins over the YoYo's. Gayl Miller contributed by bowling 58 pins over her average. For YoYo's, Don Cunningham rolled 30 pins over his average and Mike Andrews shot 27 pins over his.

Garoppo paced the league-leading Cobras to three wins over Sidewinders. John Hope helped out by rolling 31 pins over his average.

Family took three games from the Mixers as John Edwards shot 31 pins over his average; his wife, Jean, bowled 39 pins over her average; and son, Hubert, rolled 35 pins over his. For the Mixers, Karen Compton bowled 40 pins over her average and shot an all-spare game while Roosevelt Readus bowled 39 pins over his average.

Bushwhackers grabbed three games from the Ten Pins and moved another rung up the standings ladder. John Warren led the way with a 211 game and Sandra Recio bowled 29 pins over her average. Marilyn Boster shot 55 pins over her average for Ten Pins.

With his 239 game and 580 series, Colgan paced Almost Family to three wins over Edie-U. Daughter-in-law Debbie rolled 31 pins over her average while son, Mike, shot 21 pins over his average.

Four Aces made a comeback as they beat BeBe's three games. Vickie Morris rolled a 505 series to lead the way. Sis Carolyn Craig shot a 514 series and substitute bowler Don Slagle rolled 33 pins over his average. BeBe's Peggy Bartnikaitis bowled 35 pins over her average while hubby, Paul, shot a whopping 65 pins over his average and substitute Doug Wilkes had 43 pins over his.

Here are the league standings as of Nov. 8: Cobras, 25.5 wins, 6.5 losses; Family, 20.5 wins, 11.5 losses; Edie-U, 19 wins, 13 losses; Mixers, 17 wins, 15 losses; Almost Family, 17 wins, 15 losses; Bushwhackers, 17 wins, 15 losses; Comic Relief II, 16.5 wins, 15.5 losses; YoYo's, 15 wins, 17 losses; Four Aces, 13 wins, 19 losses; Sidekicks, 11 wins, 21 losses; Ten Pins, 10.5 wins, 21.5 losses; BeBe's, 10 wins, 22 losses.

Semiannual post run set for Friday

If you happen to be on post at 5:30 a.m. Friday, Nov. 17, you may see a massive run of military people led by the commanding general.

The 269th Ordnance Brigade will be having its second post run for military units. Beginning at the parade field behind the Post Theater, the distance is about 2.9 miles. This is a semiannual event which was first held in April.

"This is for every soldier, sailor or Marine on Redstone Arsenal," said Capt. Steven Conyne, the brigade operations officer. "It's not designed to tax you physically, but rather to build esprit and interunit relationships."

Maj. Gen. William Chen, the post commander, is to deliver remarks at 5:30 Friday morning on the parade field. Immediately afterwards, he and some of the other commanders on post will lead the way and the units will follow. The less than 3 mile run will end at the intersection of Aerobee and Zeus where the units will separate and head for their respective unit areas.

In April more than 3,000 participated in the post run, which is a training event for members of the 269th Ordnance Brigade, commanded by Col. James Amato.

"Good relationships between the units on post is important to Col. Amato, and he came up with this run as an excellent means to improve those relationships and the quality of life here on the arsenal," Conyne said.

Boy Scouts to collect canned goods in housing areas

This weekend Boy Scout Troop 308 of Redstone Arsenal will be participating in the Boy Scouts' second annual nationwide effort to collect food for the needy.

The Scouts will be putting plastic bags on doorknobs in the housing areas on post after school Thursday or Friday and will pick them up about 9:30 a.m. Saturday. Residents are requested to place canned goods in the bags.

"It makes me feel a lot better because you've helped other people, and that's what all Boy Scouts should do — is help other people at all times," said Paul Schuppener, 16, the senior patrol leader of Troop 308. Helping other people is part of the Scout oath.

Scouting For Food 1989 Nationwide Good Turn is aimed at helping "the poor that can't obtain food for themselves," Schuppener said. The son of retired staff sergeant David and Shirley Schuppener, he has been with Troop 308 for five years and became senior patrol leader in September. This is an elected position in which he will serve six months.

In November 1988, the Boy Scouts collected more than 60 million items of food across the country. Troop 308 helped the Tennessee Valley Council Boy Scouts collect 30.3 tons of canned goods which were taken to various Food Banks across North Alabama to be prepared for distribution.

"I'd say probably three or four vans-full of food were collected (on post)," recalled Col. Dan Dalzell, Scoutmaster of Troop 308.

The 26 members of Troop 308 will be in uniform when distributing and taking up the plastic bags from the housing areas, said Schuppener, an 11th grader at Huntsville High School.

This may be the Boy Scouts' second annual food drive, but they have a long history of helping others. "The first time a type of national 'good turn' was done was in July 1912," Schuppener said.

Dental exams advised for youngsters

Dental examination appointments for children age 12 and younger are available by calling 876-2616/1643.

Children will be seen in the Department of Pediatric Dentistry, Main Dental Clinic. The child must meet the following criteria (as must all family members):

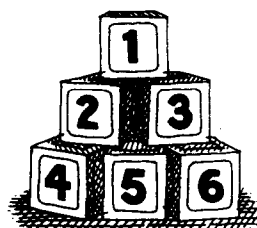

- Be an eligible I.D. card holder.
- Be enrolled in Defense Enrollment Eligibility Reporting System (DEERS).
- Not be enrolled in the Delta Dental Insurance Plan.

Pediatric dentists recommend that parents schedule their babies' first dental visit by age 1 because baby teeth are important to a child's future dental health.

At that time, the dentist can counsel on such matters as pacifiers and teething, the changing thoughts on diet and tooth decay, and ensure that the infant or child is getting proper fluoride supplements.

Unfortunately, many parents do not realize the hazards of putting a baby to bed with a nursing bottle, according to Col. Daniel Dalzell, the commander of Dental Activity. This is a leading cause of nursing decay syndrome, disfiguring decay of an infant's front teeth. "The dental examination is also a good time to talk about efforts to take the fear and discomfort out of future dental visits for your child," Dalzell said.

Vietnam-Era GI Bill expires soon for many veterans

Your father may have used it. Maybe even your mother. Or a brother, sister, boss or friend. Even you. More than 8.1 million men and women have received some $41 billion from it.

It is the Vietnam-Era GI Bill. And it is coming to an end.

The Vietnam-Era GI Bill dies on Dec. 31 for most veterans who left the service before July 1, 1988. Its burial, however, won't occur until later.

For more than a half million Vietnam-era service members still on active duty or who left service after July 1, 1988, the Vietnam-Era GI Bill may live on for quite some time. Under the rules of the Montgomery GI Bill legislated in 1985, certain service members might still be eligible to receive some Vietnam-Era GI Bill benefits if they:

- were on active duty between Feb. 1, 1955, and Dec. 31, 1976
- were still on active duty on Oct. 19, 1984; and
- remained on active duty to July 1, 1988.

Members who are, or soon will be, eligible to retire or who took a break in service and came back on active duty during the eligibility window may be able to receive monthly benefits equal to at least 50 percent of the Vietnam-Era GI Bill benefits. Plus, they may be eligible for Montgomery GI Bill entitlements.

"Eligibility for the Vietnam-Era GI Bill does end on Dec. 31," said Bonner Day, spokesman for the Department of Veterans Affairs, "but we will still process claims in 1990 for training completed before the end of 1989." Day advises veterans to submit claims as soon as possible to prevent delays.

Eligibility criteria for the Montgomery GI Bill are very complex and exceptions are provided. VA counselors and base education officers have more details.

Redstone Arsenal girl wins award for singing

A 17-year-old Redstone Arsenal girl has been selected as Huntsville's Outstanding Choral Music Student for 1989.

Matona Woodyard, daughter of 1st Sgt. John and Julie Woodyard, won a competition with vocal music students in choral programs from all the city high schools. Judging was based on music background, attitude, a personal interview and solo performance.

For the solo Woodyard, a soprano, sang "Se tu m'ami sospiri" by Pergolesi. The award includes a medal, certificate and $200 to be applied to a scholarship. Additionally, Woodyard earned the opportunity to compete for honors in the North Alabama district competition.

She is active in group and solo work at Butler High School and the Calvary Church of the Nazarene. She also receives private instruction from Charlotte Regni of the University of Alabama in Huntsville's Music Department. Following her graduation from Butler this spring, Woodyard plans to major in vocal music at the University of Montevallo.

'Great Army Smokeout' set for Nov. 16

WASHINGTON — For those tobacco-hooked soldiers who feel they need an extra boost from friends and associates to kick the habit, the Army offers the "Great Army Smokeout."

Coinciding with the American Cancer Society's 13th annual Great American Smokeout scheduled for Nov. 16, the Army version will adopt the national smokeout theme, says Lt. Col. Beverly Antopol.

"It fits right in with the Army's anti-tobacco use program," said Antopol, a staff officer in the Army's Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel.

As in the past, this year's Great Army Smokeout is intended to be, in Antopol's words, "a light-hearted, upbeat event with a serious purpose: to reduce the ranks of tobacco users by encouraging them to quit for just 24 hours."

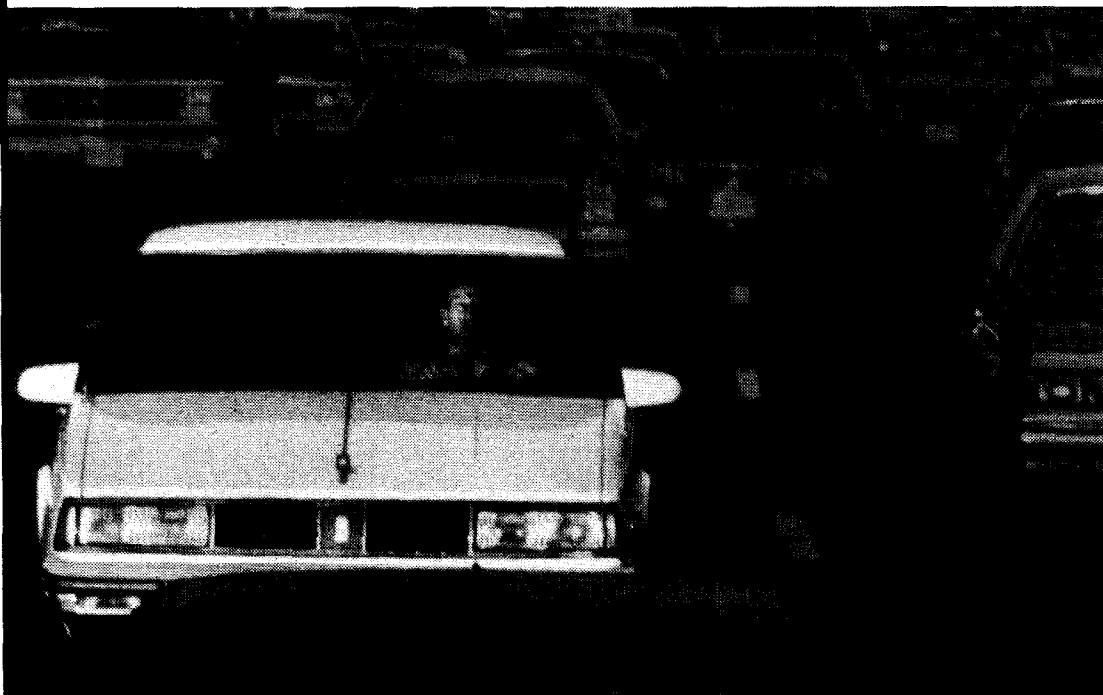

She added, "A successful quitting experience can, and often does, lead to a permanent decision to give up the habit."

Also as in past years, the smokeout focuses on cigarette smokers and on users of smokeless tobacco. For their part, non-smokers are being encouraged to lend moral support to those persons who choose to join the smokeout. The most common form of support entails "adopting" one's tobacco-using family members, friends and co-workers.

Antopol noted that the event usually receives special emphasis at the level of posts, camps and stations throughout the Army. "This includes coordinated efforts on the part of installation 'Fit to Win' coordinators or other health promotion officials. They usually work in concert with representatives from the local chapters of the American Cancer Society. And they're available to help plan activities, provide literature handouts, offer cessation aids, operate video presentations, and make referrals for persons interested in attending stop-smoking clinics."

Past smokeouts have proved their worth in helping raise the consciousness of the Army family toward avoiding tobacco products, Antopol said. (Arnews) school so they try to keep a normal schedule at home in Nashville. Niki, 19, is a sophomore at Middle Tennessee State University; and Nina, 14, is in the ninth grade.

Cua and his sound man, Russ Long, came to Redstone from Nashville and their next scheduled stop was the Columbus, Ohio, area.

On Nov. 8 he performed at the prayer breakfast at Post Chapel, at dining facilities No. 1 and No. 3, and that night at the Post Theater. "The funding for this came from the MWR (morale, welfare and recreation fund) and the Chaplains' fund," said Chaplain (Maj.) David McLean, the 269th Ordnance Brigade chaplain.

"If I was going to sing about a bad situation, I wanted to give a solution before the song was over."

— Rick Cua

"This is something kind of new we want to try to do with soldiers. He is internationally known, and has been on the top (in) contemporary Christian music."

Cua first met McLean in November 1988 in Vicenza, Italy, where he and his band performed for a filled theater.

"Boy it's fascinating," Cua said, when asked his impression of Redstone Arsenal. "I haven't gotten to see a whole ton but I sure like the people I've met."

"I think the chaplains are doing a wonderful thing," he added. "They're doing really good things and are really working hard to take care of the troops."

Savings

chase price ($60,000/$30,000 for husband and wife holding as co-owners) in bonds per year also applies to the education bond program. However, there is no limit to the amount of bonds that can be accumulated for education expenses over time as long as these bonds do not exceed the annual purchase limitations discussed above and otherwise comply with program requirements.

To exclude the bond interest from gross income, the taxpayer must use all proceeds (i.e., interest and principal) from bonds redeemed during the year for qualified educational expenses.

"For example, if I buy a bond dated Jan. 1, 1990 or later, I can use the bond and interest on it for my child's education at an educational institution and not pay taxes on it," said John Wright, the Missile Command's savings bond coordinator. He is an operating accountant at Finance & Accounting Division.

If the amount of the redemption proceeds from all eligible bonds redeemed during the year exceed the amount of the qualified educational expenses paid during such year, the amount of excludable interest will be reduced by a pro rata amount. For example, if the bond proceeds amount to $10,000 ($5,000 principal and $5,000 interest) and the qualified educational expenses are $8,000, the taxpayer would only be able to get an exclusion for 80 percent of the interest earned or $4,000.

For more information about the program, call Wright at 842-0731.

New Prescription Drug Coverage!

You asked for prescription drug coverage. We listened. Both Mail Handlers Standard and High Option Plans in 1990 will pay benefits for prescription drugs subject to a deductible. In addition, we've increased benefits for covered surgery and covered x-ray and lab tests by 40%, and benefits for covered doctors' visits by 30%.

The Mail Handlers Benefit Plan for 1990 gives you all the comprehensive benefits you want—hospitalization, surgery, catastrophic protection—and with High Option, you get dental benefits, too! What's more, you're free to choose the doctors, dentists and hospitals that you want to treat you.

Plus, you get all this for a rate that's still one of the lowest around. With the Mail Handlers Benefit Plan, there are no large annual deductibles for surgical and other medical benefits.

To find out more about the Mail Handlers Benefit Plan for 1990, call us toll-free or complete and return the coupon at right. There's no obligation!
